

Launching rockets never gets old

Guided tour and private talk by Swiss artist Raphael Hefti

Friday 9 March 2012 at

Camden Arts Centre | Arkwright Road / Finchley Road | London NW3 6DG

Programme

4.00 pm Meet us for tea and coffee at Café Curio in the Camden Arts Centre

5.00 pm Talk by Raphael Hefti and visit of the Camden Arts Centre

6.30 pm End

For the past ten years Swiss artist Raphael Hefti has been interfering with material processes, manipulating and transforming different substances to surprising effect. Coming from a technical background with a keen interest in how things are made and what things can do, Raphael Hefti sets up pseudo scientific experiments which challenge industrial fabricators and ultimately divert objects from their original state.

Raphael Hefti completed his MA at the Slade School of Fine Art in 2011 and his recent solo exhibitions include 327 Different Sounds, Coalmine Galerie, Winterthur, Switzerland and Beginning with the first thing that comes to mind, Fluxia, Milan (both 2010).

Launching Rockets Never Gets Old is Raphael Hefti's first solo show in the UK.

This event is free except for refreshments available at Café Curio

I/We would like to attend the guided tour of Launching rockets never gets old on Friday 9 March 2012 at 4 pm.

Name(s):

Address:

Email:

Tel.No.:

As booking is essential, please return this slip duly completed by Monday 5th March or book this event by emailing us at: info@newhelveticsociety.org.uk