

A word from the President

I hope that this Newsletter will be a nice diversion to while away these miserable wet days. In this issue you will be able to reminisce on the past events and have a taste of what is coming next.

I am pleased to say that two new members have joined our Council and you will be asked to officially elect them at our next AGM in April. It is always refreshing to have new members coming on board, who bring with them different and original ideas and opportunities. One of these opportunities was half-price tickets for a concert at the Queen Elizabeth Hall last December for example. And there is more to come.

Looking ahead we will be celebrating our 100th anniversary in June 2016. We are not quite so New anymore I hear some of you say. It has therefore been suggested to me that we should consider changing our name. What are your thoughts on this? Do not hesitate to email, write or talk to me. Your comments and suggestions are more than welcome. Whatever the outcome will be regarding our name we shall certainly celebrate this important anniversary in style.

On page 3 you will find a short history of the Cercle Genevois which was incorporated in the New Helvetic Society in January 2012. The Cercle was established 100 years ago and this is certainly a cause for celebration. We are working on it.

Last but not least, my apologies for the lack of newsletters in 2013 due to unforeseen circumstances. We are back on track now. And remember to contribute to our members' corner.

I hope to chat with you personally at one of our next gatherings.

Best Daniel

History of the Cercle Genevois in London

In December 1602, by a moonless night, the duke of Savoy, Charles Emmanuel, attempted to take Geneva by surprise and suffered a crushing defeat at the hands of its citizens.

In 1914 a group of professional men from Geneva residing in London formed a committee to organise the annual celebration of this historic event, the Escalade, so named because some of the Duke of Savoy's men had scaled the walls to gain access to the city.

By 1939 the committee felt that a more formal organisation was needed to take charge of the festivities and also to celebrate the anniversary of Geneva's entry into the Swiss Confederation on 1st June 1814. All 'Genevois' living in and around London were invited to a meeting to discuss a way forward and at a further meeting on 31st May statutes for the new organisation were proposed and accepted unanimously and a name chosen. The Cercle Genevois was born. Its birth place was Pagani, the famous Ticinese restaurant in Great Portland Street, where a year earlier the 25th anniversary of the first London Escalade had been commemorated.

Despite the blackout the Cercle Genevois celebrated the Escalade as planned on 11 December 1939 at Pagani's as usual. There the 21 members present were elected Founding Members and proceeded to elect a committee:

Monsieur R de Cintra – President
Mr H Charnaux – Vice-President and Treasurer
Mr F Chapuisart – Secretary
Mr C Campart – Archivist
Mr J H Oltramare – Associated Member

That was to be their last meeting at Pagani's - the restaurant was destroyed by a bomb in October 1940. In fact no more reunions could take place until the end of the war, when they resumed at different venues, including another Ticinese restaurant, the 'Valchera' in Richmond, and at private homes too. In 1946 the committee was reelected, with one change, Mr Bleiker replacing Mr Chapuisart as Secretary. It was then agreed that, in future, ladies would be invited (until then the Cercle had been a male preserve!). Raoul de Cintra remained President until his death in 1969, when a new committee was elected:

Mme Eliane Heisch-Dominicé – President
Mme Josiane Privat – Secretary and Archivist

Mr Jean-Pierre de Loriol – Vice-President
Mr Michael Metford-Sewell – Treasurer

That year the Escalade was held at the Dorchester to mark the 50th reunion since the first London celebrations. The following year the Genevans gathered at the Law Society Hall and then, again, at various venues in London until 1984. From 1984, with the kind permission of successive Ambassadors, the Escalade has been celebrated at the Embassy.

For the 400th anniversary in 2002, the Cercle Genevois commissioned souvenir bowls commemorating the fact. They were well received and are probably still in use in many families. By that time Suzy Allan, who had been President for over 20 years had stepped down and her son, Fairley, and a long-standing member, Marie-José Lindon, had taken over as Treasurer and President respectively. The 2003 gathering paid tribute to Suzy, who had died earlier in the year. She had been a dedicated President and was sorely missed.

Over the years it became more and more apparent that attendance was declining. So when it was suggested by the President of the New Helvetic Society, Daniel Pedroletti, that the Cercle Genevois join the NSH with the undertaking that the Escalade would become the NSH December event, it seemed the perfect solution to ensuring the continuation of the celebrations.

Thus a new page in the history of the Cercle Genevois in London was turned in December 2011 when the Escalade was celebrated under the new regime for the first time.

AGM followed by Living in the Land of Milk and Money

The AGM was quickly dealt with with the support of the membership. The President thanked our faithful Honorary Treasurer Rosmarie Sabir who served on the Council for so many years as she resigned from the post. Lucienne Greig who took over her duties was duly elected. All other members of the Council were reelected.

Renown writer and author of the beseller Swiss Watching Diccon Bewes spoke about Swissness. As he said, it is a word that is essentially self-explanatory: it means anything and everything to do with Switzerland. But it is in fact a made-up word, used by the Swiss to cross their own language barriers and so unite the country with a single word. Having an artificial English word to sum up a nation seems rather odd, until you realise that that in itself is typically Swiss. After all, this is a country whose official name is in Latin. Perhaps only the Swiss truly understand the real meaning of Swissness; the rest of us can only make educated guesses. www.dicconbewes.com

Book Launch, Wow, the Anglo-Saxons rediscovered Swiss history at last

Clive H Church is one of the few English academics who specialises in Swiss studies. He started life as a historian and stumbled upon Switzerland in the early 1970s. This propelled him into a wider interest in the country and he produced many articles on its history, politics and European relations. He has also taught courses on Switzerland in Lancaster and Kent and, before his new history, produced books on Swiss Politics and on Swiss relations with the European Union.

Prof. Church signed his new book A Concise History of Switzerland published by Cambridge University Press.

Slow Train to Switzerland

This is the latest book by Diccon Bewes. He writes One tour, two trips and 150 years – and a world of change – apart. That was the premise behind my new book, Slow Train to Switzerland. It's the story of the first conducted tour of Switzerland, and how that changed both the Swiss and the way we travel. It's a tale of trains and tourists, the British and the Swiss, a Victorian diarist and an English travel writer.
