Hacking and security breaches now hit the headlines on a daily basis. From a personal perspective we see credit card details stolen, celebrity photos being stolen and voicemail being hacked. We also see personal data being put on sites like Facebook, often without the consent of the person to which it relates.

For corporations the data breaches can result in significant fines when personal data is lost, associated damage to brand and reputation as well as loss of intellectual property.

This presentation will discuss some of the challenges of cybercrime at a national, corporate and personal level.

For the consumer we will discuss:

- What does it mean if I connect all my devices to the Internet?
- Am I safe using a laptop or smart phone?
- Should I do my banking or shopping online?
- What is the cloud and am I safe using it?
- What are phishing and social engineering attacks and are these relevant to me?
- We also provide some basic guidance on how to get Streetwise
